Death Claims YL Pioneer

Ralph C. Shook, Yorba Linda pioneer and father of the current director of the Yorba Linda County Water District, died Thursday, May 8, at his home at 5321 Mountain View, where he and his wife Claire had lived for 58 years. He was 85.

Operator of an orchard care business, Shook served at various times on the boards of trustees of Fullerton High School, Fullerton College, Yorba Linda Grammar School, and the Yorba Linda Water District.

He belonged to the local Chamber of Commerce, Farm Bureau, and Rotary Club. He was a charter member and past master of Yorba Linda Masonic Lodge 469, belonging to it for 50 years.

Born in 1890 in Newell, Iowa, Shook arrived in Yorba Linda in 1911, where he staked out, cleared, and planted many of the area's original orchards. In 1917 he married Claire Amstutz of Yorba Linda and moved to the Mountain View address.

Shook is survived by his widow; two sons, Richard S. and Ralph Claire, both of Yorba Linda; one daughter, Katherine Montgomery, of San Diego; a brother, Lloyd, of Santa Ana; seven grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren.

Services were conducted at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Melrose Chapel, Anaheim, by Lodge 469. Entombment was at Melrose Abbey.

Walters and McCormick Mortuary handled arrangements.

Kindergarten registration will be held at all Yorba Linda Elementary Schools on Wednesday, May 21. Hours for registration are from 9 to 11 a.m. and 1:30 to 4 p.m.

Junior High Festival Set Today

The date of Yorba Linda Junior High School's Festival of Arts has been changed to today, Wednesday, May 14, according to principal, John Best. The festival begins at 7:00 p.m. at the Junior High School on Casa Loma.

The Junior High School Chorus under the direction of Rick Allen, and the school band under the direction of Robert Shurry, will perform at the special event. Another highlight will be a presentation of 35 mm film segments of students by Mr. Lee. These programs are slated between 7:00 and 8:00 p.m. The balance of the program will be a "free flow" to various junior high classrooms to peruse students' work in areas of science, home economics and shop, as well as art.

Fred Clodt Chosen YLCW President

Fred Clodt, one of the senior members of the board of directors of the Yorba Linda County Water District, has been elected Board president.

Clodt, who first joined the board in 1960, had been serving as acting president since the death of Rex Hastings in March.

Roy Knauff, a 10-year board member, was named vice president.

Both men were elected to their new posts by fellow board members at the board meeting last Thursday.

GETTING PERSPECTIVE on her clay pot is Troy potter Wendy Johnson. Wendy was one of many students demonstrating career oriented skills at Troy's Career-a-thon Thursday.

FIRE WORKS--Troy student Gerald Jamieson used oxy-acetylene brazing to construct metal sculptures at the Troy High School Career-a-thon Thursday.

Esperanza Patrons Protest

Charges that the Open Campus policy, which permits high school students to leave their schools during lunch period, is creating a nightmare around the Esperanza campus, was voiced Monday night by patrons who live in the immediate area.

Bruce Hobbs, who resides on Holbrook Street, immediately facing the spacious campus of the Placentia Unified School District's newest school, said he and neighbors have been threatened with students congregating on lawns, with "property damage, defacing property and with verbal abuse."

The loitering noontime students "leave trash right where it is," he told members of the PUSD Board of Trustees at their regular meeting Monday night.

Hobbs described the scene as ten to twenty or more students taking their lunch break by moving onto neighboring yards and seating themselves to eat, "smoke cigarettes and drink beer."

"I'm tired of picking up half eaten sandwiches out of my ivy," he declared. "They have driven up my driveway and through my planter and down my neighbor's driveway. "At first we tried to be nice to the kids," he described for the board, "but being nice didn't help. The problem continued to get worse."

The students center around Holbrook Street and Glenview Avenue he told the board.

Hobbs used a number of colorful four-letter words he said the students had thrown at protesting residents. "We're going to get you and your kid," one student allegedly had threatened a protesting neighbor.

The complaint from that resident had resulted in obscenities being printed across railroad ties on the property, sprinkler heads removed and clumps of the lawn torn out and thrown around, a speaker at the meeting stated.

Hobbs said when he and neighbors complained to the school that an assistant principal stated that there was nothing that the school could do about the matter because of the "open campus" policy. Hobbs quoted the principal as saying, "It's out of our hands...why don't you call the police."

The Anaheim police had been called, Hobbs reported, as the school is in the city of Anaheim but indicated that the police could not be expected to be there every day. One student racing up and down the street had been apprehended. The police suggested the homeowners come before the PUSD board, Hobbs said.

"We don't want to do this," he stated. "Why should we have to do this?"

"The open campus isn't working, he told trustees. "These kids are destroying the neighborhood and subjecting three and four year old kids to language they shouldn't be subjected to."

Hobbs indicated his displeasure with "picking up all the milk cartons, cigarette butts and bottle tops off of the 5000 block of Holbrook Street" and showed trustees a trash sack he reported as one day's clean-up.

The loitering youngsters started as just a few, he reported, and have steadily been growing in numbers. Dr. John Parrish, principal of Esperanza, who was in the audience, said that the trespassing students represented only a small number of the many lunch time teenagers who are permitted to leave the campus and cause no trouble. He said he believed the open campus policy was a workable program for them.

He indicated that a part of the problem stems from Esperanza students meeting with those from the El Camino Real Continuation High School, which is also on campus. El Camino has a break in its two sessions and students coming and going from that campus are greeted by the Esperanza students.

One mother in the audience, who said she has young children, declared the students were making her family "prisoners in our own homes" because of the reckless driving and the four-letter language. "We put up with it every single, solitary day," she told trustees.

Hobbs said that to his surprise the most offensive language had been used by the girls in the groups.

PUSD Trustees indicated that conferences would be held with school officials to affect some immediate action concerning the problem.

Assembly Gives OK

Airport Bill Approved

A possible deterrent to an airport being built in the Chino Hills, long fought by home owners in this area, received a strong push forward Monday with a second affirmative vote on Assembly Bill 37 in the California Assembly.

The second action followed a first vote Thursday sponsored by author of the bill, Assemblyman John Briggs (R-Fullerton) in which the assembly passed the legislation with a resounding 56 to 8.

The bill would require that a majority of voters within a 7 1/2 mile radius of the proposed airport, must approve the plan before an airport could be constructed.

On the first vote of the current bill, Assemblyman Robert H. Badham (R-Newport Beach), had indicated that he believed there had been insufficient time allowed for discussion on the legislation and stated that he would bring the bill before the assembly again for reconsideration.

Assemblyman Briggs' office reported Tuesday that Briggs had reintroduced the legislation with affirmative results. The bill has now been forwarded to the California Senate.

Similar legislation regarding the Chino Hills Airport development was introduced last year by former Assemblyman Floyd Wakefield, was passed by both the Assembly and Senate but vetoed by former Governor Ronald Reagan. The bill then re-passed over the governor's veto but the senate adjourned without reconsidering it.

Bill AB 37 will be sponsored in the California Senate by Senator Reuben Ayala of San Bernardino, Briggs' office indicated. In the event of its passage, it would still require the signature of Governor Edmund Brown to become law.

PD Cleared In Short St. Incident

An investigation by the Orange County District Attorney's office into alleged police misconduct in breaking up a party on Short Street last November has concluded without uncovering any "provable criminal violations," according to a letter to the City from Assistant District Attorney Michael R. Capizzi.

According to Capizzi, "It is not within the jurisdiction or expertise of the district attorney's office to evaluate the correctness of the police operational tactics used that night."

Although a number of the 51 witnesses interviewed by the DA's office charged police with using excessive force and causing needless property damage, "not a single witness" was able to identify policemen involved when shown recent color photographs of officers present that night, Capizzi said.

Of 121 persons known to have been at the Nov. 2 melee, Capizzi explained only 51 could be located and were willing to be interviewed.

"We can only determine whether there are prosecutable criminal violations," Capizzi said, "and we have concluded on the basis of our investigation that there are none."

According to Capizzi, the investigation consisted of interviews of both police and citizens involved together with a review of internal investigations by Brea and Anaheim police departments, written complaints from citizens, and the results of a questionnaire circulated by the Yorba Linda City Council.

Although the investigation was made with an eye also to discovering evidence of wrong-doing by private citizens, "no further prosecutable conduct" was found there either, Capizzi said.

Five hundred man-hours were reportedly spent on the city-council-requested investigation.

Poppy Days To Begin Saturday

The more than half million Americans who have died and the one million who have been wounded during both World Wars, the Korean War and the Vietnam conflict, will be honored by a local Poppy Day in Placentia and Yorba Linda, conducted by members of the Placentia American Legion Auxiliary.

The sale, at shopping centers and banks, will be held Friday and Saturday, May 16 and 17.

Gertrude White, Poppy Chairman for the Auxiliary #277, said the flowers will be sold for whatever donation purchasers wish to make.

The bright red paper poppies are hand-made by hospitalized veterans from the Long Beach Veterans Hospital, principally blind patients, Mrs. White explained. The men are paid five cents for each poppy.

Wearing a poppy on Poppy Day was first started as a memorial to America's dead and disabled service men after World War I, Mrs. White reports.

"Soldiers returning from Europe in 1918 were familiar with the wild poppies that bloomed in the battlefields of France and Flanders," she continues. The first national Poppy Day in the United States was held in 1921.

"Our Poppy Day purpose has always been to honor the war dead by assisting the living," Mrs. White said.

Money from the sale of the poppies, above the cost, goes to the purchase of special needs equipment at the veterans' hospital. School donations, Mrs. White said, have been used in the past for an especially designed wheel chair for orthopedic and vascular patients.

Proceeds also go toward scholarships, for ward parties, for the veterans gift shop, where patients can select free gifts for their families at Christmas time. Funds also help veterans' families in need, when patients return from the hospital.

Poppies have been sold in this area since 1930. Auxiliary members will be posted at the Bank of America on Bradford Avenue and Bargain Basket Shopping Center in Placentia and the Bank of America and various shopping centers in Yorba Linda, Mrs. White said.

Board Seeks Aid On Additions

By Paul Bush

Three resolutions authorizing application for State financial assistance in the planning of three additions to the school system were approved Thursday night by the Yorba Linda school district Board of Trustees.

The board unanimously approved advance planning for the Valley View school site and for additions to the Yorba Linda junior high school. By a 3-2 vote the trustees also approved site acquisition and advance planning for a new district headquarters. Trustees Kathleen Baker and Paul Armstrong cast the negative votes.

Funds for the proposed construction would be advanced by the State School Building Loan Program after the district sells bonds totaling $515,000 dollars.

Before the state will apportion money to a local district, the district must sell bonds totaling 5 per cent of its total assessed valuation, which is the legal limit. The district must also justify its request by proving it needs or will need the additional classrooms.

In February the school district applied to the State for funds to complete additions to the Mabel Paine and Rose Drive elementary schools. That request was approved with the stipulation by the State that bonds totaling $515,000 dollars be sold and the proceeds paid to prior apportionments.

Sale of the bonds was authorized May 22, 1973 when Yorba Linda voters accepted a $2 million dollar bond issue. In December of that year, bonds totaling $1,150,000 dollars were sold, bringing the district up to its legal bonding capacity.

Since that time the assessed valuation of the district has increased while the amount of the district debt to the state has decreased. On July 1, 1975 the school district will begin selling the additional bonds to qualify for apportionment.

July 1 is also the deadline for filing applications with the state allocation Board this fiscal year. According to Assistant Superintendent of Schools L. Elton Patridge, the applications must include property appraisals which can require 45 days to complete.

Patridge also pointed out that in July new assessments are released by the county. If not filed before then the applications could require another justification document and the sale of additional bonds, due to increases in tax assessments.

"The Board is attempting through these applications to keep the maximum number of options open for future planning," Patridge said.

In another action the Board voted to allow five year olds to attend summer school. Children becoming five years old between July 23 and July 25 may enroll in an introduction to kindergarten program which will be conducted during that time. According to Superintendent of Schools Sterling Fox, the curriculum will be organized so that a child can begin on whatever day is his birthday.

Tax Increase A Bargain

Yorba Lindans are faced with an odd paradox—one which they will have a chance to correct on May 27. The fact is that although Yorba Linda is one of the most affluent communities in the county—it's school district ranks next to the bottom in per pupil expenditure, in a list of county elementary school districts. The dichotomy is primarily due to the fact that Yorba Linda is a "bedroom" community with little commercial and manufacturing property. And, as elected officials of the local school district have pointed out, homes alone will not finance a quality education for Yorba Linda children at the present tax rate. Because assessed valuation is low in Yorba Linda, a $60,000 home that generates two students, does not put enough money into district coffers to adequately educate those two children. In most other communities, this "gap" is made up for by commercial and industrial ventures which pump dollars into the district, but no students. Not so in Yorba Linda.

In fact, even if Yorba Linda's school tax rate were at county average, which it isn't, local per pupil expenditure would still be below the county average.

Yorba Lindans have consistently shown their preference for the low-key, semi-rural character of the city. A good choice—but one which may have been made without a look at the price tag.

On May 27, the district is asking for a revenue limit increase which would raise the tax rate from $2.37 for each $100 of assessed property valuation, to $3.24—an increase of 87 cents. This means that a local property owner who owns a home assessed at $10,000 ($40,000 market value) would pay about $7 per month or 24 cents per day for a quality education for their children. —A real bargain when you look at the alternatives.

If the May 27 increase fails to pull in the necessary 51 per cent majority, the local district will face cut-backs in its basic program. The district will have to increase class sizes; shorten the school day at the junior high school; make cut-backs in transportation (more students would be walking); cut-back after school athletics; eliminate instructional aides; and cut back on custodial and maintenance programs.

The board's proposal is not aimed at making Yorba Linda a "rich" district. It is aimed at maintaining an average school program. It is a "no frills" proposal—with one goal in mind—adequate education of local children.

The Star strongly recommends that Yorba Lindans evaluate their goals, and make the choice to "pay the piper" on May 27. Yorba Linda is a fine community for raising children if its citizens are willing to pay for their education. We recommend a "YES" vote on the May 27 tax limit increase measure for the future well-being of this community.

TREE PLANTING—Service League members got into the "Bicentennial spirit" recently by planting trees on the north and south sides of Yorba Linda Boulevard between Prospect and Van Buren Streets. The local League presented to the city 65 Indian Laurel trees and 130 Tam Juniper bushes in the "greening of Yorba Linda" project. The effort won the group a commendation from the Yorba Linda city council for their service. Above, Service League president, Ann Capron and Yorba Linda Mayor, Carolyn Ewing show how it's done.

New Businesses To Locate In Yorba Linda

New businesses set to locate in Yorba Linda following planning commission approval Monday night include an unfinished furniture store and a pre-school nursery. Rancho Realty, of 19732 Yorba Linda Blvd., also won the approval of plans to open a new office on the long-abandoned gas station site at Main and Lemon.

Norman Fagrell of Tustin gained commission approval for a conditional use permit to allow him to open the furniture store, to be called "Peabody's Unfinished Furniture," in a large wooden building already standing to the east of and adjoining the Yorba Linda Feed Store on Imperial Highway.

The operation will open under a cloud, however, since the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, the owner of the land, plans eventually to develop the property for large-scale commercial use.

Also beclouded is the nursery school Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Blanchard of Yorba Linda would like to open on Valley View just south of the Jehovah's Witnesses Kingdom Hall.

Although the Blanchards received design-review approval from the commission, legal problems regarding the parcel map for the land their school would occupy reportedly endanger their financial backing.

Difficulties arose because the strip of land along Valley View comprising the church lot, the proposed nursery site, and a vacant lot presently used for parking by the Little League field had never been properly subdivided, according to City Engineer Roy Stephenson.

Although the planning commission was ready to act on the necessary subdivision Monday night, a list of attached conditions were not available. Therefore the commissioners, with the reluctant consent of the Blanchards and Stephen W. Bradford of Yorba Linda Blueprint, acting as representative for the affected property-owners, continued the hearing until the commission's May 21 workshop meeting.

Finding comparatively smooth sailing was Bill Ross, representing Rancho Realty. Although the commissioners withheld the right to review any possible traffic problems created by the sales office after one year, the proposal in general won unanimous approval for both a necessary conditional use permit and a variance.

The office is set to adjoin Sas' Rags on the southeast corner of the lot. A variance was needed since the office will face northward (the city zoning ordinance requires a greater street setback for the side of a business than for its front).

An earlier proposal to open an automobile front-end alignment and brake shop on the corner had been rejected by the commission.

In other action, the commission approved a tentative tract map for a 21-lot subdivision to be developed by Standard Pacific Corporation on Eureka north of Imperial.

Chamber To Launch

The subject of the day for alert and concerned adults is "economics". Who will pay for this and who will pay for what? Where is the money coming from ... and where does it go? Everybody's asking and nobody's answering. So, on the morning of Wednesday, May 7, the Yorba Linda Chamber of Commerce

Board of Directors approved a "Job Economics Training" program for adult citizens and offered to foot the bill! "Nothing is more important than a non-partisan review, study, and clear understanding of the American private, competitive enterprise system. Folks have a tendency to jump to conclusions, partly because they hear only one angle of our Nation's economic system while, in fact, they would like to consider all sides and arrive at a sound decision," stated the Chamber's Executive Manager, Bill OpDyke. "Folks want opportunities to get together and thrash out the pros and cons of ALL facets of an economic system. A Chamber of Commerce, worthy of the name, offers its citizenry an opportunity to do just that without resorting to partisanship," he added.

Unique JET Program

The Board moved and seconded the launching of such a constructive program and authorized OpDyke to head it up. Said Chamber President J. Elton Patridge, "No subject known today is more vital than an exposure of facts as experienced by Americans themselves in their everyday adult lives."

It was the opinion of the Chamber Board that no program for adults could substitute for "Job Economics Training" (JET). A pioneer developer and researcher of "JET" back in the '50s, OpDyke was Assistant to the President of the nationwide Training Within Industry (TWI) Foundation and the TWI Division of the Government's War Production Board and War Manpower Commission, Washington, D.C. during World War II: a mammoth, nationwide undertaking that cost $23,000,000 of government private management, and private labor funds. "Your Chamber of Commerce in Yorba Linda is, therefore, well equipped to tackle this key assignment for our adult population," added Patridge.

"The most outstanding participants in such a novel program," said OpDyke, "are those men and women who do NOT claim to be 'economists!'"

Those who participate and emerge from the "JET" sessions are encouraged to "multiply" their new-found know-how with friends and neighbors. Noted OpDyke, "The program equips participants to qualify as Group Discussion Leaders, especially on the subject that is acknowledged to be No. 1 in American life today, -- the practical arts of sound economics and the part that citizens can play in support of measure to boost America. There could be no more appropriate and timely action in true celebration of our Nation's Bicentennial than that which makes human understanding possible!"

The "Job Economics Training" (JET) program consists of five, 2-hour sessions.

The cost of all this? Nothing -- to those who attend all five sessions. The Chamber foots the bill in terms of time and materials: Not more than ten, nor less than eight adults can participate in each set of five sessions. The Chamber anticipates several groups, but it cannot accommodate more than four different groups for a month or two following the first team of men and women. Both men and women per team are far superior to groups of one sex only, asserts OpDyke.

To enroll, the only requisites are that participants be 21 years of age and over: that they be residents of Yorba Linda, and enrollees must agree to attend all five sessions; otherwise a dropout makes it

Ronald Reagan Column

BY RONALD REAGAN
Copley News Service

In 1935, a gifted German woman, Leni Riefenstahl, created a documentary-style movie, "Triumph of the Will". It was brilliantly executed, but chilling as a portent of Nazi totalitarian power. Its purpose: propaganda, to glorify the Nazi cause.

In 1975 American theaters are showing a movie created by two gifted young film makers, Bert Schneider and Peter Davis: "Hearts and Minds". It, too is in documentary style and is brilliantly executed and chilling.

Its purpose: propaganda, to show that Americans are simpleminded, jingoistic sadists and that the North Vietnamese conquerors of South Vietnam are high-minded patriots.

The microphone and the eye of the camera don't lie, of course. They record words and actions as they happened. But in "Hearts and Minds", careful editing and reassembly of bits of film out of context produce a devastating effect.

As in all wars--indeed all human activities--some participants in Vietnam said and did noble things; some, ignoble things; others, shallow things. Messrs. Schneider and Davis prefer the Big Lie technique, juxtaposing bits of the truth in such a way as to distort the point to their ends.

For example, Gen. William C. Westmoreland makes an observation about the fundamentally different view of human life that prevails in the Orient. He commented about "the cheapness of life" there. The next shot selected was of Vietnamese mourning their dead. You get the idea.

We see the agonies of war, but no hint that any South Vietnamese really cared about the preservation of his nation against the invaders from the North. It is strictly a matter of the liberty-loving North Vietnamese and Viet Cong, versus Bloodthirsty America.

Apparently, Schneider and Davis haven't studied much Indochina history.

Despite its heavy propaganda message, "Hearts and Minds" has been greeted by several major film critics with panegyrics.

Whether these were inspired by the obvious technical skills of the film makers, by philosophical compatibility or simply by herd instinct one can only guess.

Now comes the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, dispensers of the Oscars, and an organization which has been taking its lumps in recent years. For example:

George C. Scott refused an Oscar for his superb title role portrayal in "Patton". Marlon Brando sent a bogus Indian princess to collect his Oscar and deliver a lecture in sociology.

A nude streaker jogged by the television cameras, and this year Dustin Hoffman announced he'd watch the proceedings on television, saying that the Hollywood celebrities in the live audience would be so heavily sedated with drink as to make nothing but spectacles of themselves.

The academy isn't known for either its political sagacity or its penetrating understanding of world affairs, but that didn't deter them from selecting "Hearts and Minds" as the year's best "documentary" film. As if this high praise wasn't enough for a film that is, in effect, propaganda for the Vietnamese Communists, Schneider said, "Isn't it ironic that our film wins this award just as Vietnam is about to be liberated?" He then read a telegram of "greetings" from a Viet Cong official. The audience cheered. Maybe Dustin Hoffman was right.

Our leaders made a grave mistake in sending American soldiers to a war they were not allowed to win. Any cause worth dying for is worth winning. Still, hundreds of thousands of young men went in the hope that what they were doing would save a small nation from its invaders. They are worthy of more than the oversimplification and distortions of Schneider and Davis.

Josef Goebbels was fond of saying that if you told a big enough lie often enough, people would believe it. He proved it in World War II Germany. I think Americans are more sophisticated and know one when they see one. Let us hope so if they go to see "Hearts and Minds".

After struggling for three years to successfully grow the beautiful Venus fly-trap plant, I think I have found the secret. This latest plant now resides inside a glass egg, complete with cover. In this enclosed environment, the plant is thriving delightfully and getting bigger every day. I counted six new leaves popping out, and it looks like a lot more are on their way. Since this is the "year of the fly", it's a good plant to have handy.

In and Around Yorba Linda

by Judy Goffin

Well, the Yorba Linda Woman's Club held their 46th Flower Show last week and it was, as always, lovely. There were probably not as many entries as usual because of the rain the night before...it does tend to affect roses...but the show was lovely.

I stopped by on Saturday to see all the displays and found that I had taken a few blue ribbons for my roses. Also, I was there just in time for all the raffle prizes. Many people won bags of Bandini fertilizer donated by Joe Littlefield. Many prizes went to Paul Gibbs, Effie Casper, Lois Waldorf, Helen Zimmerman and June Sheldon. I heard also that Helen Zimmerman is recovering very nicely at home after some recent surgery. For all of you Yorba Lindans a bit of information...the flower show is open to all members of the community. There are no entry fees, just a chance to win a few blue ribbons and enjoy talking with people that enjoy flowers and flower arranging.

I heard recently that the doctors offices in our area are filling up with young people that have had accidents from riding skateboards. I guess broken arms are the in thing this spring.

Children in the Methodist Nursery School will have a chance to visit the beach this coming month. According to age and days they attend the school, various groups will bus down to Laguna, play in the water and enjoy a picnic lunch too.

Coming up the end of the month will be the State Convention in Sacramento for members of the California Federation of Woman's Clubs Junior Membership. Attending from this area will be Judy Dougal, outgoing president Pam Tice, incoming president, and Ann Eaves, Treasurer of Orange District. The Convention is May 22 through 24.

Dagmar Larson was recently honored with an Honorary Life Membership in Music Art Society of Yorba Linda-Placentia. She has been a member of the organization since its inception in 1966. During the past years she has served as the club's secretary and has worked on all of the projects that have promoted culture in the field of music and art in the youth of our communities. The presentation was made at the installation of officers for the club held at a local restaurant last month.

Esperanza High will hold their first Junior Senior Prom on May 31. The theme for the prom is Dancing in the Moonlight. The prom will take place at the Le Baron Hotel in Buena Park.

Local girls appeared on Prep World on Sports last week. In the Arcadia Invitational Track meet, Esperanza High School girls did quite well. Sophomore Laura Johnson finished second in the 880 yard run. In a medley relay team effort, Laura, Janet Pease, Beve Danforth and Marci Campbell finished second with a time of 1:51.8 which broke the school and the league records. Senior Karin Donnelly also had a great afternoon placing fifth in the shot put. Who was it that said girls are not good athletes!

Tax Credit On NOX Device Introduced

Assemblyman Bruce Nestande (R-Orange) introduced legislation today to allow California taxpayers a tax credit for mandatory installation of smog devices.

Nestande stated that, "Those persons who complied with the recently repealed NOx device law will have the opportunity to claim a tax credit, to be applied against personal income taxes for the 1975 taxable year, of up to $37.20, which was the maximum legal cost for installation of the NOx device."

The Legislature took action to repeal the law requiring mandatory installation of NOx devices by original owners of 1966-1970 model cars.

Nestande noted that, "The Legislature must deal in an equitable manner with those persons who complied with the law when it was in effect. This legislation will do just that."

Foster Homes Needed In Area

The Foster Home Program in Orange County is asking for help from communities in the county. There is an urgent and continuing need for recruiting and maintaining a sufficient number of homes to handle the increasing number of children needing care, according to Betty Ulibarri of the Orange County Foster Program.

Children need foster homes for many reasons. Some are placed by the court because their own parents are considered unable to provide proper care, others are awaiting permanent adoptive homes, and some are placed voluntarily by their own parents who need time to straighten out their own lives. All have some kind of emotional adjustment to overcome and all need the loving care only a foster home can provide.

Caring for someone else's child takes patience, understanding of children and acceptance of the child's problems.

The challenge is that all children need help and they deserve the right to develop into happy, responsible adults. Foster children generally have not received the love and attention necessary for proper development.

Trees, kids, Cities, and a founder of the Placentia Little League captured the attention of some of us this week, and caused an argument at my house.

It all started with an article in the Placentia Courier about Steve March, the man who began the Little League program in this city. March feels the City of Placentia should provide lights for some of the major Little League fields here, so the kids can play some games at night. It's not unusual for cities to do this. The City of Yorba Linda did it for their Little League fields a few years ago at a cost of $20,000.

March didn't mince any words. In the articles he stated, "The City always has the money to spend foolishly, like putting up a forest in the middle of the street."

Boy, I couldn't agree more! The cost of the median strips is estimated to be a million dollars. It's been a sore subject here because my wife thinks the trees are great. So when I read March's views I immediately brought it to her attention.

"Look what Steve March has to say about those trees that are taking up half of Yorba Linda Boulevard," I said.

"You men see only the problems connected with those plantings. Think for a minute of the beauty it will bring to our streets. Man doesn't live by bread alone, you know," she replied smugly.

I was used to that argument, and this time March had given me the ammunition I needed. "You're always talking about priorities. Shouldn't that money be invested in facilities for people? It seems to me we should invest in our kids and not in streets." I was really wound up now and threw in some of my own ideas. "I don't see any of those fancy median strips and trees in the old section of town. It seems to me we should be improving the old part of town before we start on the new." I paused a minute to catch my breath. "Placentia's leadership seems to have a thing about trees-look, they just bought five acres of the darned things for nearly half a million dollars. Now they are spending a million dollars for planted median strips, and I suppose eventually it will cost another million dollars to remove them and repair the streets," I ended indignantly.

She came back swiftly, "That million dollars is not being spent right now. It's going to take a 15 year period to get those medians in, according to the City." "And it's not fair to compare the purchase of five acres with the median plantings. They have nothing in common."

"Except they are both ridiculous," I muttered. There the argument settled into a kind of hostile silence.

But my wife has a soft spot for kids, and March's comments made a real impression on her. She read the article, and the next day as we drove by the trees she didn't make her usual comments of "Won't it be lovely someday? I can just imagine it..." and other equally annoying statements. You know, I think I might just win this argument! Or maybe Steve March won it for me.
